

How I feel about when my friends move away!

I have been at this school for 7 years and have lived here since I arrived.

When my friends move away I feel upset and hurt and also angry with their parents because they were the ones that had decided, and I also feel abandoned because I am the one that is left behind.

I have had many friends that have been in the RAF that have left me and that makes me feel unhappy.

There was a friend called Kate and I was very sad because I had known her all my life my mum said we were like sisters. We were neighbours for a little while but then she moved over the road from me.

I was so sad when I heard about it but the reason was because her mum and dad had split up she was really sad about it and she didn't want to move.

When I was feeling blue Kate was always there to cheer me up.

There was another friend as well that I used to hang around with and she was called Sarah and when I found out that she was leaving I was so upset. Her family was in the RAF and she was my best friend and she was always there for me.

I feel really sad when my friends leave me
behind but I keep in touch with them with msn messenger and over the phone.

I always keep in touch with them and I always will.

By Saffron Brown