

How I feel when my friends move away.

I have been at Linton on Ouse primary school for three years. And in those three years I have seen many friends come and go. Some that were very special to me and others that I didn't know for very long.

Many of my friends have left me and when they have it has been very difficult. I have had lots of different emotions when my friends have left and I'm going to tell you about a few of them. When my friend Linda left I felt really upset and lonely because I thought I would never see her again and she would forget all about me but luckily we have been emailing ever since. Another time was when my friend Karen left she was a great friend and I missed her loads. But the most upsetting thing is that in the last few days she was here, she used to walk off on her own and sit staring into space. We tried to comfort her and tell her moving wouldn't be that bad but she blocked us out completely. I think she was preparing herself for life without us.

I have kept in touch with many of my friends that have moved. But when my friends have moved, the nice thing is that all my other friends comforted each other and me. That's what I like about Linton school were like one big happy family.

By Victoria Brown